Vassilis Theocharakis

July 21, 2006 - August 18, 2006

Poros

Vassilis Theocharakis's aquarelles are exceptional and among the best in this field. They are classic, charismatic testaments to the radiance of the Greek light, of its refraction in water and the metaphysical quality that is inherent in the Greek islands and shores.

With an unsurpassed sensibility, expressed in the most creative manner possible which is a part of the difficult and sensitive technique of aquarelle, Theocharakis delights his viewers through infinitesimal gradations of a hue.

His aquarelles resonate to the rhythm of the color and the pulse of the artist's visual gestures; they evoke something beyond the tangible: multifaceted, transcendent landscapes that create in the viewer impressions and especially experiences that are impervious to time.
